

DBVRS

Currently there is only one way a fully deaf and blind person can make a real time telephone call and that is through a relay interpreter or communication facilitator (CF).

To make telephone communication accessible to a fully deaf-blind caller, the CF is the logical extension of the Video Relay Service (VRS) now offered to deaf. The FCC should approve this extension and thereby truly make telecommunications accessible.